Barcelona Stock Exchange

fact sheet 2016

The organisation and members of the Barcelona Stock Exchange. A network at the service of investment.

General Data

History

The roots of the Barcelona Stock Exchange go back to the Middle Ages with the emergence of commodity exchanges at the time of the Commercial Revolution in Catalonia. The “Ordinacions” promulgated by King James I in 1271 is the oldest and most complete text regulating the role of the mercantile mediator.

Towards the middle of the nineteenth century, with the industrial boom and the birth of the first Catalan corporations, the trading of securities was started, with an active market in Barcelona where the role of the mediators was carried out by “Corredores Reales”, forerunners of the later “Agentes de Cambio y Bolsa” (stockbrokers).

The Official Stock Exchange was created in 1915, its government and administration being entrusted, until 29 July 1989, to the “Colegio de Agentes de Cambio y Bolsa” (Stockbrokers’ Association).

With the coming into force of Stock Market Act 24/1988 on 29 July 1989, the Barcelona Stock Exchange came under the control of the “Sociedad Rectora de la Bolsa de Valores de Barcelona, S.A.U.”. In 2002 the Barcelona Stock Exchange, along with Iberclear and the other Spanish markets, formed the Bolsas y Mercados Españoles Group (BME).

Tax Regime

Dividends and General Meeting attendance bonuses

Dividends, General Meeting attendance bonuses and profit-sharing qualify as investment income, and must generally be added to the “savings” category of the taxable base of personal income tax (Impuesto sobre la Renta de las Personas Físicas), which is taxed at a rate ranging from 19% to 23%, determined by the following bands:

2017 and thereafter
Saving taxable base	Charge	Up to taxable base	Rate
0.00	0	6,000.00	19%
6,000.00	1,140.00	44,000.00	21%
50,000.00	10,380.00	them	23%

19% withholding at source on the gross dividend, to be deducted from income tax.

Interest

Interest generally forms part of the “savings” category of the taxable base, which is taxed at the same rate as that established for dividends.

Exceptions aside, gross interest income is subject to a withholding of 19%, to be deducted from the personal income tax charge.

Capital gains and losses

All capital gains from the transfer of assets, regardless of the seniority allowance of the element within the taxpayer’s assets, will be included within the savings taxable base, with tax payable based on the aforementioned scale.

This general tax system is also applicable to capital gains derived from the transfer of or redemption proceeds from shares and stakes in collective investment institutions. Nonetheless, capital gains and loss arising from the transfer of or redemption proceeds from shares and stakes in collective investment institutions, in certain cases, shall not be included in the calculation of income tax if the amount obtained is reinvested in the acquisition of other shares or stakes in collective investment institutions, with the new shares and stakes keeping their value and the date of acquisition of the shares or stakes transferred or redeemed.

These deferral rules do not apply if the proceeds of sale or redemption of shares and units of collective investment institutions are made available to the taxpayer in any form. Nor do the deferral rules apply if the sale or redemption concerns shares in the equity of a collective investment institution qualifying as a listed investment fund (ETF) in the Spanish Stock Exchange.

Taxable gains on the sale or redemption of shares or units in collective investment institutions are subject to a withholding of 19%, except if the collective investment institution qualifies as a listed investment fund (ETF) in the Spanish Stock Exchange.

The person under an obligation to pay in a 19% withholding on the gain is sometimes the shareholder/unitholder making the sale or redemption.

An important new aspect introduced makes reference to the transfer of subscription rights from negotiated securities, although this will come into force on 1 January 2017.

The amount obtained through the sale of subscription rights from negotiated securities will be integrally calculated as capital gains without reducing the acquisition cost of the securities.

Finally, capital gains that are not derived from a transfer will continue to be included within the general taxable base.

Offsetting of income

Spain's Income Tax Law provides the option to offset returns against capital gains in the savings base, with certain limits.

Any capital losses on property included in the taxable savings base can be offset by the positive balance derived from capital gains derived from the transfer of assets, to a limit of 20% for 2017 (and 25% from 2018 onward) of the aforesaid the positive balance.

If, after this offsetting, there is still a negative balance, the amount may be offset in the same way over the four following years.

Any negative balance regarding capital gains and losses included in the taxable savings base can be offset by the positive balance derived from capital gains on property derived from the transfer of assets, to a limit of 20% for 2017 (and 25% from 2018 onward) of the aforesaid the positive balance. Any remaining negative balance may be offset in the same way over the four following years.

Negative balances as a result of the offsetting of capital gains not derived from the transfer of assets can be offset with the rest of the income included within the general taxable base, to a limit of 25%. If, after this offsetting, there is still a negative balance, the amount may be offset in the same way over the four following years. In addition, Spain's Income Tax Law also established a transitory regime for any unused tax losses from tax years 2013 and 2014.

On the new scale, any income and capital gains added to the general tax base shall be liable for the general bracket, where the minimum rate in Catalonia for the year 2017 shall be 21.5%, and the maximum rate shall be 48%.

International double taxation

Here, the tax regime is shaped by the existence of a double taxation treaty between Spain and the investor's country of residence and by the various exemptions available under Spanish tax law. The investor must produce proof of domicile.

However, the Ley del Impuesto sobre la Renta de los No Residentes (Non-Resident Income Tax Act) allows an exemption for income obtained by non-resident individuals or entities from the sale of securities or the redemption of units in investment funds taking place on a Spanish regulated market without the involvement of any permanent establishment in Spain if such individual or entity is resident in a state that has in place a double taxation treaty with Spain with an information exchange clause.

Under most of the treaties to which Spain is a signatory the final tax rate in the source country is 15% for dividends and 10% to 15% for interest.

Exemption from value-added tax and transfer tax

Outside certain statutory exceptions specifically involving transfers of title to land, sales of securities, exchange-traded or otherwise, are exempt from transfer tax/stamp duty (Impuesto sobre Transmisiones Patrimoniales y Actos Jurídicos Documentados) and from value-added tax (Impuesto sobre el Valor Añadido).

Wealth tax

Royal Decree-Law 13/2011 of 16 September reintroduced Wealth Tax to the Spanish system, as a temporary measure for tax years 2011 and 2012 only. Its validity was subsequently extended for tax years following. At the present time, Royal Decree-Law 3/2016 establishes the extension for the year 2017.

The reintroduction of wealth tax places taxable persons under a duty to report their assets and rights at year-end of the year.

Under the Law 19/1991, of 6 June, (Wealth Tax Act), fixed-income securities, equity securities and investment fund units must be measured as follows:

- Fixed-income securities:

Securities representing assignments to third parties of own capital (treasury bills, bonds and debentures, etc.) are measured at their average quoted value in the fourth quarter of the year.

- Equity securities:

Securities representing a share in the equity of any form of entity listed on a regulated market, other than a collective investment institution, are measured at their average quoted value in the fourth quarter of the year.

- Collective investment institutions:

Securities representing a share in the members' funds or equity of a collective investment institution are measured at their net asset value at the date of accrual of the tax (31 December).

Foreign Investment Regime

Foreign investment in Spain is governed by Royal Decree 664/1999 of 23 April concerning foreign investment.

Persons holding title to foreign investments

The following are considered as owners of foreign investments in Spain:

- (i) natural persons not resident in Spain, understood as Spanish or foreign, who are either registered abroad or have their main residence abroad; and
- (ii) legal persons registered abroad, and non-Spanish public sovereign entities.

Foreign investments in Spain arise in the following ways:

- Shareholdings in Spanish companies (e.g. creation of a company, subscription and acquisition of shares or stakes or subscription rights, share-convertible bonds or other similar instruments carrying rights to shareholdings, or any other legal contract by virtue of which voting rights are acquired).
- Creation or expansion of a branch network.
- Subscription for and acquisition of tradable securities representing borrowings issued by residents.
- Shareholdings in investment funds registered with the Comisión Nacional del Mercado de Valores, the Spanish securities market regulator.
- Acquisition of real property in Spain, in a total amount exceeding 3,000,000 euros, or when, irrespective of the amount, it originates in tax havens.
- Creation or formation of, or shareholdings in, joint ventures, foundations, economic interest groupings, cooperatives and partnerships.

Restrictions on foreign investment

Foreign investment in Spain, and disinvestment, is deregulated. However, the deregulated regime may be suspended:

- On a reasoned basis and following a report by the Foreign Investment Board ("Junta de Inversiones Exteriores"), the Spanish Government may suspend general deregulation if investment affects or may affect, even occasionally, activities relating to the exercise of public powers, law and order or public safety and health. In this case an application must be made for prior administrative authorisation.
- Activities directly relating to national defence require prior government authorization and are subject to a special regime.
- Special systems have also been established in specific sectoral legislations.

Reporting foreign investment in/disinvestment from Spain

Foreign investments in Spain and their liquidation must be declared to the Ministry of Finance's Investment Register for administrative, statistical or economic purposes, with the exception of any investments originating in territories or countries considered tax havens, which shall require a prior declaration unless, for the purposes that concern us here, when investment concerns marketable securities either issued or offered to the public, whether or not traded on an official secondary market, and holdings in investment funds. No special stock market registration is required.

The following persons must report investments/disinvestments:

- As a general rule, the non-resident owner of the investment.
- In particular:
 - In the case of investments in marketable securities either issued or offered to the public, whether or not traded on an official secondary market, investment companies, credit institutions, other authorised financial institutions, or entities action by which is mandatory for the purposes of subscribing or transferring securities, or that act as depositories or administrators of the securities acquired.
 - In the case of investments in marketable securities that are not traded on official secondary markets, but the parties have deposited or registered these securities voluntarily, the party obliged to make this declaration shall be the depository or administrator of the securities, unless a company, securities agency or a credit institution has been involved in the operation.
 - The Spanish company targeted by the investment, in the case of registered shares.
 - The investment fund management company if the transaction involves a Spanish investment fund.
